Common questions

Refund your guest

It can happen to the best of Hosts: The wifi is a no-show, or the hot tub isn't hot. If something gets in the way of your guest's good time, you can send them a full or partial refund before, during, or after their stay. We'll notify them right away, and process the refund within 48 hours. Once you send the money, the transaction is considered final.

If your guest cancels

It happens—plans change! If a guest needs to cancel their reservation, we're here to help you with a quick rebound.

Your payout if a guest cancels

Sometimes things don't go according to plan. If your guest cancels (either before or during a trip), they'll be automatically refunded according to your cancellation policy. If your guest is owed a refund, that amount is deducted from your payout. To find your updated payout amount, go to your transaction history. If needed, you can give your guests an additional refund.
